Greenfield Steel Processing Plant

ThyssenKrupp Steel USA used the criteria of technical capabilities and experience in the metals industry to select a firm to provide architectural and engineering services for its $3.7 billion greenfield steel processing plant near Mobile, Alabama.

CH2M HILL's resume of more than 50 years of successful steel mill projects made us an ideal fit to meet those client criteria for this project, believed to be the single largest industrial project anywhere in America. This massive project showcases CH2M HILL's metals industry strength and our global presence that helps multinational clients make the most of their investments in the United States.
